Lenzmeier reaches out to our community groups

I have been a Stearns County resident active in Boy Scouts for years. Stearns County commissioners like Leigh Lenzmeier encourage community groups to volunteer with county staff and use county assets. Leigh sees the community benefits from such cooperation. I have included some examples.

Boy Scouts efforts established public rock climbing in Quarry Park. A half-dozen Eagle Scout/Stearns County projects are done every year including ecological restorations, building and installing benches on Lake Wobegon Trail, planting forest groves, interpretive sign design, construction at Heims Mill, and providing camp sites for the Scout Council.

Explorers and the Stearns County Sheriff also work together. Explorers provide peak time support for deputies, work traffic and crowd control at area special events. and get a feel for the service that police officers provide.

Leigh Lenzmeier sees Scout participation getting more sophisticated in the future. ... Vote for Leigh Lenzmeier.
